The admiral's recall was requested by the U. S. state department when it was indicated that he was responsible for the recent scuttling of Italian merchant ships in American waters.

Fire Department Tax Levy Vote Assured

ALL COUNCIL MEMBERS GIVE PLAN APPROVAL

Lawmakers Indicate They'll Vote For Submission of Question to Electors.

ACT AT MAY MEETING

Legislation, Fostered by Finance Committee, Will Be Drawn Up Soon.

Submission for a popular vote at the August primary of a half-mill tax levy to modernize Mansfield's fire fighting equipment was virtually assured today when all members of city council gave the proposal their individual approval

Councilman Fred Miller, chairman of the finance committee, yesterday announced that the committee would propose the levy at council's next meeting May 6. The levy proposal covers a period of five years.

The committee took action after "rattle trap" fire trucks had broken down on three occasions this week. Although there had been agitation for several years to replace obsolete fire equipment, it was not until after the $100,000 Home Materials lumber yard fire Sunday night and the inefficient action of the equipment since, that any definite plan was advanced.

Councilmen Russell D. Porch and George C. Kyle were emphatic in their praise of the proposed ordinance. Porch said that the modernization of the equipment had been needed for more than ten years. Kyle stated that the trucks were "undoubtedly obsolete" and that action should be taken as soon as possible. He suggested, however, that a gradual program of improvement be laid out.

The levy would call for a tax of 50 cents upon each thousand dollars of assessed valuation. This, according to finance committee members, would not be too much of a hardship for any of the taxpayers. If the levy ordinance is passed, the question would be plac-

Fighting Anzacs Captured By Nazis

Covering the British evacuation of Greece, these Anzac soldiers were taken by German armored forces at Larisa. The hard-hitting Australians are given much credit for their effective rear-guard fighting, permitting the British to withdraw orderly and save vitally-needed equipment. Trap British Rearguard In Surprise Move

Berlin Reports Encircling Movement Brings Capture of Thebes, Takes Troops to Within 25 Miles Of Grecian Capital.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—In a vast encircling movement by way of the Island of Euboea, swift German troops snapped a trap on the British rear guard below Thermopylae, captured the city of Thebes, and advanced to a point less than 25 miles from Athens, the Nazi supreme command announced today.

As a result, Nazi quarters predicted that the Germans may stage a triumphal entrance into the Greek capital tomorrow.

German panzer units were reported already streaking over the historic plain of Marathon, northeast of Athens—where the flat terrain aided the Nazi advance instead of giving the Greeks the advantage they held in defeating the Persians in 490 B. C.

Military authorities in Berlin said that the detour by way of Euboea, the 120-mile-long island paralleling the Greek east coast from points opposite Thermopylae to Athens, was "one of the swiftest strokes carried out in the war."

Powerful forces with full mechanized equipment embarked from the mainland at Tresalia, dashed down the Island of Chalcis, northeast of Thebes, and cut straight across the British lines.

The stroke, said military spokesmen in Berlin, "outwitted and doomed the straggling remnants of the B. E. F., whose connections with headquarters at Piraeus were broken off."

This thrust, according to indications so far received, unexpectedly increased the number of British prisoners and booty, and caused a pell-mell rush for boats at evacuation ports.

At the same time the main German column, the west jaw of the pincers, thrust straight down beyond Thebes after defeating a British force at a narrow pass near Molos. At Molos, said the supreme command, several hundred British prisoners were taken and 30 guns were captured.

Although the Germans declare they are in no hurry to occupy Athens, authorities predicted that troops may march in at any moment — with formal occupation likely tomorrow, just as the Germans took over Belgrade last Sunday.

The German column which landed from Euboea was reported even closer to Athens than that driving down below Thebes.

Germany's supreme command also confirmed that Nazi troops have landed on the Aegean islands of Thasos, Samothrace, and Lemnos, occupying commanding positions with relation to the Dardanelles.

Meanwhile, heavy German bombers and Stuka dive bombers hammered incessantly at British transport vessels in Greek harbors and at sea, German authorities said.

The German air attacks on ships evacuating the British expedition-

Patrol to Establish 'Channel of Safety'

Washington Hears U. S. Ships, Planes Would Guard Narrow Swathe for Shipping In Atlantic.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The navy's extended patrol of an Atlantic "safety zone" was expected today to concentrate on maintaining a "safe channel" across much of the Atlantic for ships carrying supplies to Britain.

As informed officials understood the plan, American military planes and warships will criss-cross this channel which will be a few hundred miles wide, tagging marauding submarines or suspicious surface ships and advising cargo ships how to dodge them.

Emphasizing the administration's statement that this is not a way of convoying Britain-bound ships, the cargo ships will proceed through the area separately, each according to its best abilities.

The patrol was expected to extend at least as far toward Britain as the longitude of Greenland, where the United States is moving to take action against any German forces stationed there. Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday that Axis forces may be in Greenland now although he is not certain.

It was learned that the forces in question are a German survey and weather observation party that landed in Greenland about four months ago and were still there at the time the United States signed a pact to defend the island.

A similar party previously had set up a meterological station in Greenland, but had been ejected by Danish authorities.

Officials were unable to say whether the second party is in Greenland at the moment. But Mr. Roosevelt said plainly that if they are the United States will counteract them. He did not specify just what steps would be taken.

A possible clue to the nature of this action was contained in the comment of Sen. Tom Connally, (D. Tex.), a ranking member of the senate foreign relations committee, who said:

"If Nazi military and naval forces should undertake to seize any part of Greenland, I'd be in favor of instructing the navy to eject them. I regard Green-

COLD SHOULDER

Congress Unenthusiastic Over Plan to Tax Foodstuffs.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Proposals for taxation of coffee, sugar and other foodstuffs met with little enthusiasm in congress today but legislators said the grave international situation might largely outweigh usual political objections to such levies in the raising of $3,500,000,000 of new revenue.

Experts on the staff of the joint congressional committee on taxation suggested yesterday that consideration be given to a levy of five cents a pound on coffee and one cent a pound on sugar, as part of a long list of excises disigned to raise $661,000,000.

Most members of the house ways and means committee said they desired to await the reaction of the public to the suggestions. Open hearings on the recommendations of the treasury department and the suggestions of the congressional tax experts will begin Monday.

Meeting for the annual "kick-off" dinner at the Westinghouse cafeteria and auditorium last night, approximately 200 workers in the Community Fund's 22nd annual drive for funds received instructions from the 12 divisional majors in charge of solicitation and witnessed a dramatization of the round-the-clock service entended by each of the 11 agencies participating in the fund

The drive for $64,375 begins Monday and captains and workers make first reports on progress of the drive Tuesday at a luncheon at the Evergreens, according to Rev. D. N. Roller, campaign chairman.

"This campaign is more than just a campaign to raise about $65,000," Rev. Roller told the Fund organization during the after-dinner program. "We want to show the world Democracy is in action. We want to see people giving something just out of the love and sympathy of their hearts, giving something toward building strong bodies and virile souls in our boys and girls."

Presenting scenes based on activities and actual cases of Community Fund agencies, "The Cavalcade of the Community Fund," dramatization depicted the humanitarian work made possible by the Fund.

Mediation Board Also Doubles Efforts to Settle Soft Coal Controversy.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The defense mediation board strove today to avert a threatened strike against General Motors corporation, and at the same time redoubled its efforts to end the soft coal tie-up.

The board, appointed last month by President Roosevelt, turned immediate attention to selection of a panel to hear the General Motors case, and to set a date for hearings.

Labor Secretary Perkins certified the dispute to the board last night, shortly after the CIO United Automobile Workers announced in Detroit that local unions in 60 of the corporation's 61 plants over the nation had voted to authorize a walkout. There are about 160,000 workers on the General Motors payroll.

Important industries began scraping the bottoms of their coal bins as a result of the bituminous mine tie-up which has kept some 400,000 miners idle since April 1.

Industrials declared that steel production and railroad service would have to be curtailed in the event the mines remained shut down much longer.

The mediation board's special

Objectors to Be 'Inducted' for Work In Camps

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Some 2,000 conscientious objectors, whose religious beliefs will not permit them to serve in the army, will be "inducted" between May 15 and early fall for "work of national importance," officials said today.

Seven camps, to be operated and financed by such religious groups, now are ready to receive the first contingents. The initial group of 80 men will be assigned to camps in the Patapsco state forest near Baltimore, Md.; the Grottoes, Va., and Lagro, Ind.

Their work will be supervised by engineers and government technicians.

Camps selected and their annual quotas are:

Patapsco, 125; Grottoes, 125, Lagro, 125, and (not ready for occupancy) Colorado Springs, Colo., 125; San Dimas, Calif., 125, Magnolia, Ark., 125; Marietta, O., 75; Cooperstown, N. Y., 25, Cape Hatteras, N. C., 50, Royalstown, Petersham, Ashburnham, Mass., 50 each; and Brice Creek, Ore., 125.

Judge Names Committee to Help With Juvenile Cases

Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer today announced the appointment of a five-member advisory committee to aid his juvenile court in the rehabilitation of youthful offenders.

Representing schools, the city health department, Boy Scouts, physicians, and the county humane society, the committee members will serve without pay and will be subject to call by Judge Cramer

Members of the committee are Roy Spetka, principal of the Bushnell school; Dr. F. J. Heringhaus; Floyd Dent, Boy Scout executive; Mrs. R. E. Rogers, nurse in the city health department, and Mrs. Marie Menchan, county humane officer.

Judge Cramer said he would ask the committee to confer with him on "troublesome juvenile cases and suggest means of helping boys and girls of school age to get a new start."

He explained that a number of the young offenders brought into juvenile court need only the proper environment and some encouragement to set them straight again.

With a wide range of contacts the committee members may be able to offer suggestions for placing juveniles in new homes or jobs and save them from the reformatorial school, Judge Cramer pointed out.

ESCAPE: Newsman Tells of Being Held for Firing Squad

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—A story of escape from death before a firing squad of Serbian vigilantes who considered him a German spy was related by Sam Brewer, Balkan war correspondent, in a dispatch published today by the Chicago Tribune.

The Tribune writer arrived yesterday in Budapest, Hungary, from Yugoslavia where he had been cut off from the outside world for 19 days.

(Four other American correspondents have been missing in the Balkan war zone since they embarked in a rowboat powered by an outboard motor from Kotor, Yugoslavia, on a 400-mile trip down the Adriatic to Greece.

(They were Robert St. John of the Associated Press, Leigh White of Columbia broadcasting system and overseas news agency, Leon Kay of the United Press and Russell Hill of the New York Herald Tribune.

(Ray Brock of the New York Times, also unreported, was believed to have remained in Kotor. Cecil Brown, CBS correspondent, reported last night he had reached Budapest from Rome by way of Belgrade after having been arrested three times as a spy and once as a parachutist.)

Brewer said he reached the outskirts of Belgrade April 6 as scores of German dive bombers pounded the Yugoslav capital. Entering the burning city he was seized by eight Serbian vigilantes.

"One wanted to shoot me," Brewer related. "The others said they should search me first. Under the glare of the flames they dumped my knapsack and my typewriter on the pavement. . . . They found the evidence they needed: A coil of wire used to repair the typewriter, a spare flashlight battery, and a pair of boots."

Brewer said the illiterate vigilantes suspected the wire was radio antennae, the battery and typewriter a radio transmitter,

RETURN: R. A. F. Bombers Pay Incendiary Visit to Berlin

(By International News Service)

LONDON—British long-distance bombers once more attacked Berlin during the night, dropping incendiary and high explosive bombs on targets in the German capital, it was revealed in London today.

British authorities said the assault on Berlin was carried out by a small force of RAF planes while other British squadrons hammered Kiel and other bases in northwestern Germany for the second successive night.

Bremerhaven, Wilhelmshaven, Emden, Lubeck and Friedrichstadt were attacked in addition to Kiel, and oil storage depots at Rotterdam were attacked, it was announced.

During the hours of daylight yesterday two enemy supply ships were directly hit by bombs west of Helgoland

German night attacks on Britain were relatively light, in comparison with some previous nights.

Many incendiary bombs and some high explosives were dropped on one northeastern English town, however, and damage and casualties resulted. This attack was short but intensive and a large number of German bombers participated, drawing a terrific anti-aircraft barrage.

Other Nazi raiders were reported over a town in northern Ireland.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Marlene Dietrich is still and always Ye Compleat Movie Star, for which, in a sometimes pale world, praise be.

The lady of the gams has added another studio to her list; the Warner domain where, as a rule, stars are called by their first names (if not "Butch") and bum cigarets as casually as they permit themselves to be bummed.

ROBBIN COONS

The Dietrich arrival, for the first day of "Manpower" was an eye-popping event. Her long, sleek, shiny black limousine was driven by a chauffeur in a tunic. With her there arrived on the stage a nice garden of cut flowers and greenery and a magnum of champaign—mostly tribute from satellites at Universal, her last stopover.

Also there was trundled out the Dietrich full-length mirror, framed in chromium, the matching table, the matching beige-leather chair, each piece bearing a metal plate labeling it a gift from the crews of her last three films. Miss Dietrich, in the kind of clothes a gal just leaving prison would wear, made for the mirror, accompanied by Nellie Marie Stanley, her hair-dresser for the past seven years. Miss Dietrich, at the mirror, touched up her own makeup ("Nobody knows my face as well as I do") and shortly went into her scene.

AFTERWARD George Raft, one shoe off, inquired if she'd ever seen a broken toe. After duly admiring same, Marlene and George, awaiting the next set-up, turned on a portable phonograph and did a nice little rhumba, which one and all admired, gathering 'round. Pretty soon Miss Dietrich was "Marlene" to the others and there was cigaret-swapping all around.

A few days later, after the usual report had been spread that "Dietrich is acting up again," Marlene was out of her prison drabs and working as a B-girl, enticing stewed gentry to buy themselves whiskey and Marlene tea-and-soda in Director Raoul Walsh's honky-tonk clip joint, operated by one Smiley, or Barton MacLane.

Marlene looked colossal (in an alluring, sylph-like way, what with a skin-tight black satin Milo Andersen revelation molded around her figger. (Question: "What's she wear underneath that?" Answer: "Nothing—she never wears anything underneath 'em. She doesn't wear a girdle.") It's some dress, with a knee-high slit up one side revealing a jewel-gartered gam.

REPUBLICS OF AMERICAS NEAR SHIP ACCORD

Reported Ready For Unified Action on Taking Over Foreign Craft.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Representatives of the 21 American republics recommended today that their nation take over the more than 160 foreign vessels idle in their ports and use them "to promote . . . the peace and security of the continent."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The 21 American republics were reported today at the point of agreement on a unified "good neighbor" policy for utilization of more than 160 idle foreign-flag ships refugeeing in American ports.

A sub-committee of the Inter-American economic and financial advisory committee already has approved the draft of a plan through which the long-idle vessels would be put to work carrying vitally needed cargo, it was learned authoritatively. Final agreement and signature of the formal declaration were declared likely at a meeting of the entire committee here today.

The Inter-American ship discussions followed closely two other important moves designed to relieve severe tonnage shortages and insure the safety of American ships on the high seas:

1. President Roosevelt revealed that the navy's neutrality patrol has been extended to any place in the seven seas considered necessary to protect the western hemisphere.

2. The house prepared to act on legislation authorizing the president to take over foreign vessels in United States ports and put them to any use. The bill was approved by the house merchant marine committee yesterday.

The 5,400,000 gross tons of British shipping lost since the beginning of the war and dislocation of other shipping services as a result of the conflict have created a critical shortage in ships serving south and central American countries.

Under the proposed plan, originally formulated by foreign minister Guani of Uruguy, the 21 American republics would uphold the right of each American nation to take over vessels of belligerent countries lying idle in its ports and operate them in service vital to the nation's economy, particularly in the maintenance of Inter-American trade.

After a "pool" of ships sufficient to meet the American nations' shipping requirements had been set aside for operation—largeily in the western hemisphere—it was said the plan would permit surplus tonnage to be sold or chartered to Great Britain or other nations.

CAN'T AGREE ON WHO SHOULD CLEAN UP 'SHANTYTOWN' AREA

RAVENNA—(U.P.)—Federal and state officials today were still unable to agree whose responsibility it was to "clean out" the Ravenna ordnance plant "shantytown" as workers began to vacate the shacks.

About 125 Negro construction workers at the plant who were dismissed, deserted the settlement of tarpaper-covered shacks. S. E. Hunkin, president of the Hunkin-Conkey construction plant which is building the shell loading plant, said employes were dismissed as part of a general layoff program in connection with completion of construction work.

Meanwhile, Defense Housing Coordinator C. F. Palmer at Washington referred to local authorities the problem of dealing with the "shantytown" which state health and inspection officials have found unsanitary and unsafe.

Palmer said his office "has no jurisdiction over the types of construction used by private contractors." A protest over the "shantytown" had been sent to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins by George Strain, state director of industrial relations. Miss Perkins turned the matter over to Palmer.

Hunkin denied that workers were dismissed because they had lived in the "shantytown" area. He said layoffs this week had totaled about 1,000.

SWEENEY OUSTS ELECTION AIDES

Charges Fraud In Removal of Three Paulding County Vote Officials.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Two members and the clerk of the Paulding county election board were ousted today by Secretary of State John Sweeney, who blamed them for fraudulent irregularities in an election recount. A fourth member was asked to resign and a fifth given a "clean bill."

Ousted effective May 1 were Chairman O. E. Ehrhart, (D.) of Antwerpt, Clifford Keck (R.) of Oakwood, and Clerk Charles J. Price (R.) of Paulding. A. B. Moore (R.) of Paulding was given until May 1 to resign and William Russell (D.) of Paulding was exonorated.

The Paulding county grand jury demanded the board's ouster in an unprecedented action after the courts upset the recount election of Henry Green (R.) for county engineer, awarding the position to Daniel A. Stouffer (D.) winner on the original count.

Sweeney asserted the removals were made in the interests of "public confidence" and "honesty" in elections.

He reported there was nothing in the record to indicate Moore had knowledge of the fraudulent recount, but that because he was past 80 years of age his ability has become impeded.

Russell, according to Sweeney, was the only board member who refused to sign a certificate of election for Green as a result of the recount.

Laff-a-Day

"Have you any salt-water taffy?"

Selective Service Board 2 had found a youth today who prefers jail to army life, but he probably will have to serve his year in the army anyway. A Mansfield youth, one of six who were released from the county jail several weeks ago to go into the army, wrote to the board to report he is "disgusted with life" in a camp near Rockford, Ill., and would prefer to be back in the county jail. Clerk Byran Styert of the board said the case is out of the board's hands, but added that "This selectee should be more grateful than any of the others for his chance in the army."

In addition to the big thermometer and sign in Central park which has represented the Community Fund's advances in its annual drive, six new thermometers have been erected over the city as "score boards" to tell home-going workers each night how much their Community Fund has advanced in its drive during the day. The attractive red, white and blue thermometers were made and painted by boys in Senior high school wood shop, under the direction of Paul Hauserman. The lettering was done by the pupils in Miss Marjorie Campbell's art class at Senior high, and the work of erecting them over town was done by Roy Vaughn, president of the City Parks Commission, and park workers. They may be seen at South Main and Lexington, the intersection of Maple, Sherman and Marion avenues, Bowman and Harker, Orange and Newman, Fifth and Adams and the east side of Central park.

RESURFACE ROAD

Board Orders Improvement of Amoy-Pavonia Thoroughfare.

County commissioners today called for resurfacing of the Amoy-Pavonia road from route 13 one mile east to the Richland Shale plant in Weller township and authorized County Engineer Howard Sword to seek bids on removal of bridges on the old Newville-Perrysville road in Worthington township.

The engineer will prepare estimates on improvement of the section of the Amoy-Pavonia road and submit them to commissioners before June 1. It is expected that black-top materials will be used on the road.

Commissioners voted to remove the bridges on the Newville-Perrysville road after the highway was abandoned to make way for the Pleasant Hill reservoir project. The materials in the bridges will be sold to the contractor who dismantles the structures and the funds from their sale will be turned over to the county highway department.

HAVE SUPPLY FOR ONLY TWO WEEKS MORE

Lake Freighters Also Hit By Shutdown In Bituminous Mines of Nation.

CLEVELAND — Ohio's steel plants and lake freighters have a margin of little more than two weeks supply of coal as a result of major shutdowns in the bituminous coal industry.

The Youngstown area has seven of its 25 blast furnaces and one of its three Bessemer converters out of production. Further curtailment of production is certain next week unless the shutdown ends immediately.

Ships arriving at Toledo will clean out by tomorrow the supply of coal being shipped to upper lake ports. Toledo's Chesapeake & Ohio docks, which 11 days ago had 6,000 carloads, were down to 900 yesterday, and other Toledo docks were virtually clean.

There were only 2,811 carloads at all Lake Erie docks, and while many bulk freighters went up the lakes after their cargoes of Lake Superior iron ore without loading coal, others were reported picking up cargo coal by visiting more than one port.

A. T. Wood, president of the Lake Carriers association, testified at a house merchant marine committee hearing in Washington that coal available at Great Lakes ports was sufficient for about two round trips of the ore fleets, which would take about two weeks.

The growing shortage of coal for lake freighters has a direct, but not immediate, bearing on the operation of the same steel plants which are faced with a current shortage of coal and coke. Iron ore shippers have been expecting a record-breaking season on the Great Lakes in order to feed the defense-busy steel mills, and declare full operation of the ore fleets for the full season will be necessary.

Coal and coke supplies at steel plants in Ohio were said in steel circles to be adequate for "little more than two weeks," although some plants have more reserves than others.

After resumption of activity in mines and at coke ovens, it would take time to bring the steel plants back to the near-capacity operations which they have been experiencing in recent months, steel men point out. Coke ovens would take about ten days to reach full production, and about three more days would be needed for transportation.

Some authorities estimate as much as three weeks would be needed for restoring operations in blast furnaces completely shut down.

An average blast furnace, having a capacity of 1,000 tons of pig iron daily, uses 1,000 tons of coke, 2,000 tons of ore and 500 tons of limestone.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, APRIL 26, 1941.

Drive carefully tomorrow—it would be too bad to dent the fender of that new car.

So Athens, which of all cities has given most light to the world, suffers another barbarian invasion.

Don't be disturbed about not understanding European politics—even in this country the subject presents difficulties.

Hemispheric Defense Reaches Far

SPREAD of American military activities, in the movement toward hemispheric defense, was revealed with startling suddenness by President Roosevelt yesterday when he told reporters that a "neutrality patrol" was being maintained a thousand miles into the Atlantic Ocean and would operate "as far into the waters of the seven seas as may be necessary for the defense of the western hemisphere."

Carefully distinguishing between a "neutrality patrol" and a "convoy," President Roosevelt emphasized that the administration is not thinking of convoys at this time, but his talk yesterday came so soon after the expression of views by Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of Navy Knox that all seemed keyed to the same theme of giving greatest possible protection to shipments of war materials and supplies to Britain.

The president's intimation of possible encroachment of Nazi forces in Greenland opened a new field for conjecture and seemed to bring the actuality of war somewhat closer, since Greenland has been accepted as a part of the western hemisphere's defense system and comes within the protection of the Monroe Doctrine.

More clearly than ever before President Roosevelt also took occasion yesterday to indicate his attitude toward the appeasement preachments of Col. Charles Lindbergh and his associates on the "America First Committee."

Readers of history will recall that in Civil war days, in the northern states, there was no more despised person than Vallandingham, and no more opprobrious name could be called in the Civil war period, and immediately thereafter, than "Copperhead."

Complaint has been made in some quarters that President Roosevelt has not yet been entirely frank in acquainting the American public with the seriousness of the situation which he must believe to exist if steps thus far taken toward war are justified. Nor has administration attitude toward strikes in general, and toward the coal strike in particular, seemed sufficiently determined, in the face of such an emergency as now appears to exist.

It may be hoped that yesterday's statements will be followed by other clarifying utterances through which the American people can be made more "adequately aware" of the part the United States is being called upon to play in the world war situation.

National Daylight Saving Proposed

EXCEPT for adjustment to changed schedules in other parts of the country, Mansfielders are not disturbed by the "daylight saving" system which necessitates clock-changing in many cities.

Before 1927, when Ohio was changed from Central to Eastern standard time, "daylight saving" was a lively topic of conversation twice each year, with some experimenting in setting clocks an hour ahead in the fall and back again in the spring.

Now, however, this state has the advantage of "daylight saving" without tampering with timepieces, and the idea of attempting to gain another hour of daylight, as is in vogue in New York and other eastern cities during the winter months, is not appealing in this section, which is near the dividing line between Eastern and Central standard time.

A suggestion is being offered, however, that daylight saving again be made national, as was done in 1918 after America's entry into the World war. The main argument now is that it would save illumination costs in industry and would do away with the confusion of having different time except in the four designated zones of the country.

A bill to this effect has been introduced in the house and is said to have the approval of President Roosevelt and of army and navy heads.

Dog-Poisoning Never Justified

UNTIL there is actual proof to the contrary, many people will prefer to believe that accidental, rather than intentional, poisoning has been causing the death or illness of dogs in the southwest part of the city.

It seems unlikely that, despite the annoyance and destructiveness of roaming dogs—due to the negligence or thoughtlessness of their owners—any decent person would succumb to the viciousness of placing poison within reach of a family pet.

Neighbors naturally wish to avoid the enmities frequently engendered as a result of complaining about dogs being permitted to run at large over vicinity yards, flower beds and gardens, but resort to poison in an effort to eradicate the nuisance evidences a trait of character ill-befitting any person claiming even a modicum of respectability.

Danger of Overdoing 'Pressure'

CONGRESS and state legislatures have become so accustomed to the activities of minority social and political "pressure groups" that this seems to be accepted as a legitimate part of democratic procedure.

The pressure is usually applied by energetic minorities, and is often strikingly effective. But in a country that is supposed to be governed by majorities, the results are often very questionable. A minority has a right to speak and urge, but not to control. And it may be recalled that many a city and country—France being the most startling example recently—has been wrecked by pressure groups.

It is pointed out by Vice President Wallace that in order to make our democracy effective, especially in times like these, and in the rather alarming future that looms before us, "we must enact laws only for the general welfare of the nation as a whole. Democracy cannot survive if pressure groups are allowed to formulate our legislative policy."

His remarks were said to refer to "industrial, labor, farm, financial and other organized groups that sponsor legislation." It is a delicate business and the principle may often be difficult to apply. True patriotism should suggest to pressure groups when it is time to yield and let the majority exercise its rights.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Save when bad weather thwarts him, Ben Bernie likes to fly down to Miami Beach after his broadcast each week. He lives down there and prefers to have sand in his shoes rather than kicking around Manhattan all week.

Lounging all alone in one of the big southbound mail liners the other night, he was thinking of what a fine time he was going to have when the door to the pilot's cabin opened and Dick Merrill stepped out.

"Hello, Ben," cried Dick, "what are you doing way up here?"

"Where are we?" Ben wanted to know.

"We're 7,000 feet above Baltimore and I've got a horse that can't miss."

"A horse," said Bernie, pricking up his ears.

"A beauty. Aerial Bomb. Can't miss," he intoned mournfully, "and I can't play him."

"I'll make a book for you," Bernie told him. Wherefore Dick Merrill, transatlantic flier and noted airlines pilot, placed $10 on Aerial Bomb's nose and ten more to show.

Which, as things turned out, only goes to show that Merrill is an abler pilot than a judge of horseflesh. Aerial Bomb failed to explode, and Bernie collected $20.

THERE are times when silence is a pearl of great worth, but facing a newsreel camera calmly is not one of them. Then you are supposed to keep talking and appear unaware that anything is happening. If you can do this, you can act. Somerset Maugham achieves this nonchalance by repeating the Lord's Prayer. The words come automatically and he phrases them in conversational tones. Study his lip movements the next time you see him on a screen and see if this is not so.

Dayton Stoddart's biography of Sime Silverman, "Lord Broadway," has been revised. Several of Sime's intimates didn't like some of the things in the book, and the publishers are now having the manuscript re-examined. It is interesting to note that Mrs. Silverman was delighted with the life story of her late and famous husband as it stood. She herself didn't recommend a single change.

ONE of New York's most famous and exclusive mansions stands at 5th avenue and 51st street. It seems incongruous to pass there and find that the curtains have patches on them a foot high. These may easily be seen from the sidewalk. Yet the property is practically priceless.

That was an interesting meeting of secretaries lunching at the Waldorf the other day. The former secretary of Winston Churchill, Phyllis Moir, was guest of honor, and other guests included the secretaries of Wendell Willkie, Herbert Hoover, Mayor LaGuardia and many other prominent people. Miss Moir is the author of a new book called "I Was Churchill's Private Secretary," published only a few weeks ago.

Capital Show Packs 'Em In Already

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—As I write this, there are three big national conventions going on in Washington. It's also cherry blossom time, which is probably the year's biggest boom time in tourist trade. Add all these to defense crowding, and the result for the home folks is awful.

Those scowls the senators are wearing and the short tempers they bring to the Capitol betray that not even they can get a taxi when they want one. The only vacant rooms in town are in the White House.

The board of trade, the hotel men, the merchants and some private citizens who are getting $6 to $8 a day for single rooms with extra cots are beaming. The rest of us are just bucking the crowds and perspiring and hoping it won't be the same next week.

This brings up a point. Barring only New York and Chicago, Washington is fast becoming the greatest convention city in the country.

Without a single state convention, since it has no state, Washington had 208 conventions last year, with nearly 83,000 delegates and goodness knows how many relatives and friends of delegates. They are going to beat that mark in 1941 and by 1942. With the new armory completed to give space for bigger conventions and the city's new and largest hotel ready for the howling mobs, the town will enter an era of conventionitis that will make the heyday of Atlantic City a forgotten age.

A Hotel 'For Conventions.'

AN INDICATION of what the national capital is coming to as a conclave center is that after surveying the situation, the Statler hotel people started breaking ground for a thousand-roomer. It is, board of trade officials say proudly, the only hotel in the world designed principally for handling big conventions. Its biggest convention asset will be a ballroom that will seat 3,000—only 1,000 less than Constitution Hall which belongs to the Daughters of the American Revolution and isn't available for just every kind of shindig that comes along.

The reasons for the rise of Washington as an annual confab center are various. In the first place, there isn't any difficulty figuring out those entertainment programs, for if there is any city in the world that has sights, this is it. You can get everything from an FBI tour to a day in congress, and free without even gratis.

Then, too, this is probably the nation's center of good, bad and indifferent public speaking. And although some of the better ones come pretty high, there are a lot who can be had for the asking.

The third important reason is that associations or business groups with an axe to grind can't possibly do better than to go where the grindstone is. Some very effective lobbying has been done by resoluting and demanding right under the noses of congress.

Kids Coming In May.

MY FAVORITE of all the conventions is one coming up in May. They don't ask anything. Speechmaking is at a minimum. And although the delegates number 15,000, you'll find never an inebriate or typical conventioneer among them. Besides that they provide one of the season's most stirring spectacles.

They are the delegates to the annual parade of school safety patrols. When these 15,000 junior traffic policemen in their natty little white Sam Browne belts, and headed by the U. S. Navy band go swinging up Constitution avenue, it's the kind of a parade I like. It's a big favorite with the rest of Washington, too, for although a parade here is pretty trite stuff, this one draws a good gallery.

Clean Up Your Mind

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU WOULDN'T keep a filthy drain pipe in your kitchen—
Nor drink from a slime-covered pool—
Nor store rotting food in your refrigerator.

You know that such conditions are not only disgusting and unhygienic, but extremely dangerous, and you'd expect to be sick, if not killed, if you practiced them.

Yet every day in scores of ways you do things—without a moment's worry—which are far more disgusting and an infinitely greater menace to your health and life!

Meaning what!

Meaning your MENTAL HYGIENE.

A poisonous drain, a stagnant pool, tainted food—these things are all matters of physical hygiene which affect your bodies as directly and powerfully as food or germs.

Fear can kill as surely as filth.

Hate can sicken you as surely as slime.

Secret envy and self-pity—stored grief or resentment—can taint your life more than putrid meat.

Mental hygiene is far more important than physical hygiene.

You can run many a risk of the flesh and yet survive, for the body has power to cleanse and cure itself.

But you cannot clutter your mind with trash, nor corrupt it with nastiness, nor mess it up with malice, without sure and painful penalty.

Fate, you may feel, has done you dirt. You've possibly a list of complaints as long as your arm. You may even have suffered great tragedy and injustice you never deserved. Even so, this much is sure—

The dirtiest deals you've ever had have been dealt you by yourself.

The greatest misery you have ever suffered has been generated in your head.

No crook or capitalist can ever rob you as viciously as you rob yourself of opportunity by your own cowardice, your own self-indulgence, your own anti-social habits.

Death itself can't break your heart or lay waste your life as surely as your own cussedness and conceit.

As a housekeeper, you're proud of your clean and pretty home, aren't you, Mary? As a business man you boast of your efficient modern office, don't you, Bill? But how clean and pretty are your THOUGHTS? How modern are your ATTITUDES?

Often you wonder why life has fizzled out—why you're so sick of everything and everybody—why nothing seems worth while any more—and you try to hang the blame on this or that. But it's dollars to doughnuts, stranger, that you yourself are to blame.

What does it profit you to keep a spotless home or model office if you meanwhile maintain a public nuisance back of your own eyebrows?

Feeling sunk?

THEN GET BUSY AND DO A HOUSE CLEANING JOB ON YOURSELF.

You can keep clutter and corruption out of your own mind as surely as you can keep them out of your refrigerator or file. You can throw open your spirit to the cleansing sunshine of healthy habits as easily as you can throw open your kitchen or office windows.

And there's no more reason or justification for lugging around yesterday's hates, hurts or heartbreaks than for keeping a dead cat on your living room table.

What Draftees Think.

Editor News-Journal:

There has been a lot in the paper lately about the defense program, especially the strikes. The following statement is the opinion of we draftees. After all we are deeply concerned in the matter of defense.

Shops and unions all over the country are having trouble. Men are striking for more money, better working conditions, union recognition, etc. How about we draftees? Most of us quit good jobs because we were called upon to serve our country. We are working hard, under all kinds of conditions, for 70 cents a day—drilling and learning the grim game of modern warfare, so we can defend our country if the need arises.

The men whom we depend on for equipment and materials are letting us down by striking. After all, we are in the army learning all we can so we can defend our homes, loved ones and also the laboring factions. Do they call that fair play by holding us back? Why can't they do their share by working in harmony with the defense program and supply us with the equipment and essential materials we need so badly?

All of the strikers are making more than 70 cents a day. What would happen if we draftees would lay down on the job and demand more money? We would be called traitors and cowards. What should we call the strikers, unions and manufacturers who are causing all this delay?

If we should happen to go to war and couldn't do the job right because of lack of equipment people would blame it on our leaders, saying we weren't properly trained. What can we do without the proper equipment?

I was drafted from No. 3 draft board January 27.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Congress Ponders Tax Problem, Need for More Billions Looms

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

AS ITS NAME suggests, the house ways and means committee figures out ways and means of paying for congressional programs. Since all congressional money-raising must start there, it is one of the most potent committees in either house.

On Monday it took up a whopper of a problem: how to raise the 19 billion dollars for the estimated budget of the next fiscal year.

To guide it, the committee had the recommendation of both Republican and Democratic congressional leaders that two-thirds be raised through taxation and the other third through borrowing.

This meant that the nation's tax intake had to be increased to more than 12 billion, a 3½ billion rise.

Ideas for additional money sources seemed to fall into three general classes:

1. An increase in existing taxes. Informed circles opined that a large boost was in prospect for existing taxes. Though dour, grizzled Chairman Doughton of the ways and means committee kept the early hearings secret, word leaked out that the treasury experts had proposed a drastic plan to collect from two to six times as much income tax from taxpayers in the low and middle brackets.

The increase would raise $1,500,000,000 of the new revenues sought. A schedule of new and higher surtaxes would be imposed on everyone who pays a penny income tax. Some members hinted they were not enthusiastic about the proposal.

The plan, if adopted, would have the effect of making the tax rate on the lowest taxable incomes 16.5%. Now the rate for the lowest bracket is 4.4% when the special defense levy is added. The present basic rate would be retained. But the new surtax, starting at the very bottom of taxable income, would be 11% for the first $2,000 of taxable income up to 75% on income above $5,000,000.

In addition, the treasury reportedly urged that the corporation tax be increased from 24 to 30%.

Among existing excise taxes for which an increase was forecast in some quarters was the 6½ cents tax per pack on cigarettes (which would be raised to 8).

2. A return of many World War era levies.

Doughton forecast revival of certain of the so-called "nuisance" taxes of that period. Some of those including taxes on railroad tickets and freight shipments, insurance policies, soft drinks, and candy.

3. The tapping of untouched fields.

The most discussed new tax in this category was a general sales tax. President Roosevelt frowned at the mention of such a tax; and Rep. Dingell (D-Mich) termed it inequitable and unfair in that it would impose an "undue share" of the burden on "the little fellows."

The sales tax, however, had its defenders. Some congressmen suggested that the approximate effect of the general sales levy might be attained—though calling the method a different name—by adding more manufacturers' excise levies.

At Home

Nye Sees a 'Dead Horse.'

The most persistent heckler recently of the U. S. foreign policy of offering aid to victims of aggression has been dapper Senator Nye. Here are excerpts:

He said any union with a foreign power now would be suicide because "we are tying up with a dead horse."

He criticized the administration for its pledges of assistance to Yugoslavia by saying, "These empty promises have definitely weakened our prestige throughout the world."

President Roosevelt informed newsmen that he felt American public opinion was not adequately aware of the acuteness of the war situation in Europe. He said the war can only be won by keeping England—which he called the main defense of democracy—going.

Neighbors Try Barter.

President Roosevelt's visitor at his Hyde Park estate last Sunday was his good friend Mackenzie King, Canada's prime minister.

When they emerged from a seven-hour session, it was disclosed that Canada and the U. S. would undertake a vast barter of war materials. Some observers believed the tie-up would relieve warring Canada's financial strain.

A statement said: "It was agreed upon as a general principle that in mobilizing resources of this continent each country should provide the other with the defense articles which it is best able to produce, and, above all, produce quickly."

And for our part, officials said they hoped that Canada could supply us with more than $200,000,000 worth of defense articles urgently required by the U. S., such as aluminum and ships.

April's Tardy Showers.

April showers bring the flowers and keep dead leaves damp. But this year there were no showers for a fortnight and the weather was abnormally warm. As a result an epidemic of forest fires swept through nearly all Atlantic seaboard states.

More than 150,000 wooded acres were charred at a loss of untold millions of dollars. At Marshfield, Mass., 500 buildings were razed. In hard-hit New Jersey, at least 46 homes were destroyed at the Lakewood winter resort.

Abroad

Where Next?

As the British and Greeks were pushed farther and farther down the peninsula this week, observers already had begun to wonder where Adolf Hitler would strike next.

An indication that diplomatic heat was being applied to Turkey was seen when the wily German minister to Turkey, Franz von Papen, left Istanbul by plane for Berlin.

The London Daily Herald heard unofficial reports that Germany had demanded from Turkey complete military control of the Bosporus and Dardanelles in return for a part of Greece's Thrace.

And from the other side of Europe came hints (perhaps Axis-inspired) that Adolf Hitler was preparing an attempt to close the western end of the Mediterranean at Gibraltar.

Bombing Notes.

The RAF loosed its heaviest raid on Berlin. It said the German capital was checkered with fire.

A bomb forced the AP's London staff from its offices for the third time. Apparently it was a time bomb. After working four hours in another building, the staff was permitted to return.

Prime Minister Churchill warned Italy that Rome, hitherto unbombed, would be attacked the first time Athens or Cairo is molested. He said the Italians probably would dump captured British bombs on adjoining Vatican City to make it look like the British had bombed it. The Italians said this was "slanderous propaganda."

Explanation.

Pravda, official mouthpiece of the Communist party, described Russia's pact with Japan as a blow at plans of United States and British interests, whom it accused of conspiring to draw Russia into war against Japan or Germany.

Labor

'Cooling Off' Proposal.

To provide a compulsory "cooling off' period before strikes can be called in defense industries, Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) introduced a bill providing for 25 days of attempts at mediation between notice of intention to strike and the effective date of the walkout.

CIO President Phil Murray charged that the Vinson bill "strikes at the very existence of labor unions." The bill, approved by the house naval affairs committee, received a severe setback when Secretary of War Stimson expressed disapproval of the measure. He said he was "loath to recommend restrictive legislation . . . as long as there is hope that other methods of preventing interruption to production will prove effective."

Agreement.

The Aluminum Company of America reached an agreement with the Aluminum Workers of America (CIO) to grant a flat 8-cent-an-hour wage increase to 17,000 workers in five plants.

Timely Editorial

As Viewed In Michigan.

Again, certain members of the legislature are toying with a notion to legalize slot machines. The state has had enough trouble with this sort of gambling to convince any decent citizen that no possible revenues to be derived can compensate for the damage to morals and menace to peace and safety that always go with slot machine operation. The slot machine always is associated with backroom haziness, shady politics, periodic raids and ax-smashing.

Michigan has experimented with all sorts of so-called regulation. There is but one cure for the evil, to outlaw the machines and permit no relaxation in law enforcement.—Detroit News.

Mediation Board Also Doubles Efforts to Settle Soft Coal Controversy.

coal panel called for further hearings today in an effort to gain a swift settlement of the dispute between the CIO United Mine Workers and coal operators in both the southern and northern Applachian districts.

All participants in the first sessions yesterday were silent on the progress made, but informed sources said that the union had given no indication of receding in its demands for a $7-a-day wage throughout the industry.

The uniform wage proposal was the crux of the controversy. Northern operators reportedly agreed to raise the rate from $6 to $7 if the southern group would pay the same amount.

The latter, now paying $5.60, have objected to wiping out the differential.

The General Motors dispute revolves around union demands for a closed shop, a 10-cents-an-hour wage increase, revised powers for a labor umpire and changes in the shop steward system.

The CIO-UAW called a meeting of its international executive board in Detroit Sunday to act on the threatened strike.

Michigan authorities have notified the union that under a state law, a 30-day cooling-off period must elapse before a walkout.

General Motors has about $700,000,000 in defense contracts. Union officials have said that workers on defense jobs would not be called out in event of a strike, but company executives assert it would be impossible to segregate defense and non-defense work in the plants.

The bituminous mines idle for 26 days, the dwindling coal supply began to affect industry.

Defense officials said that steel production, now at 95 per cent of plant capacity, would have to be reduced to 85 per cent next week and to 60 per cent of the following week, for lack of fuel.

ed on the primary ballot in August.

Councilmen Arthur L. Croak, H. M. Emmons, Lester Hunter, Howard Miller, J. J. Kutschall, also expressed their approval of the levy and said they had heard much favorable comment on it already.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton was outright in his approval of the plan.

"The dilapitated and run down condition of our fire equipment and the trouble we have had with it since the Home Materials fire," said Crafton, "demands that something be done. I am sure that if the public in voting on a bond issue realizes that at least $50,000 would be saved annually in reduced fire insurance rates, the levy will be passed."

Approval was also expressed by Mayor William J. Locke who said that if the committee continued to give the plan its full support that the city would benefit greatly.

Bobs Watson again plays Pee Wee.

New Mexico's natural beauty provides background for thrilling cattle stampedes and bandit chases. "Here Comes Happiness" shares the bill.

Roy Rogers plays a young Confederate soldier at the close of the Civil war in "Robin Hood of the Pecos," the co-attraction.

land as a part of the western hemisphere, which we are pledged to defend."

The plan for cutting a swathe across the north Atlantic with a naval patrol is a refinement of a previously reported idea of operating the American "neutrality patrol" in 300-mile areas circumscribing the new bases in Greenland and Newfoundland.

Under the new plan, vessels and aircraft in the north Atlantic patrol would cover a sweeping route which probably would take them a considerable distance across the Atlantic—most likely to points near where the British have encountered the largest depredations on their overseas supply lines. U. S. warships and planes would work out of navy bases, including those in Newfoundland and Greenland.

The British thus could concentrate the bulk of their battle strength in the infested waters near their islands.

Such a protective system would be the first tactical departure from the method of convoys—that is, the protection of cargo vessels by constantly escorting warships.

Official sources admitted that there were risks attached to this proposed patrol system. But they pointed out that as in other instances of "short-of-war" moves to aid nations fighting the Axis, the issue of peace or war with this country rests upon the decision of Germany and Italy "to make something of it."

CITIZENSHIP TO BE EMPHASIZED FOR BOY SCOUTS

Community Fund Agency Begins Boy Training at Early Age; 600 Registered Here.

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles on Mansfield Community Fund agencies. They are being published in connection with the annual Fund campaign which opens Monday.

Practical experience in citizenship, one of the most important phases of the Mansfield Boy Scout program, will be emphasized more strongly than ever during the coming year in an effort to "strengthen and invigorate democracy."

"To learn by doing is one of the aims of scouting," Floyd Dent, executive secretary for 21 years, explains. And to that end the Scouts hold their own mock civic elections and participate in all kinds of civic campaigns.

Today the Scouts delivered Community Fund tabloid newspapers to 12,000 homes in Mansfield as their part in the Fund drive which will allot $6,250 to the local organization providing the Fund goal of $64,375 is reached.

Earlier this week 40 representatives from local troops accompanied fire inspectors on their rounds of the city in order to take first hand information back to their troops.

Active here since 1912 the Mansfield Scout organization has 600 members and is one of the five districts in the Johnny Appleseed area having a membership of 1,410.

In building strong bodies and higher ideals the Scout program puts equal emphasis on crafts and physical recreation.

"There is little chance of a Scout becoming delinquent," according to Dent, "providing we start the boy's citizenship training and character early enough."

Boys as young as nine years of age can begin their training by enrolling with the Cubs, a nine to 11 year-old group who bring their parents to the meetings. Three packs are now functioning and the Scout executive expects to have 10 groups active within the next year and a half.

Any boy 12 years old can belong to the Scouts by earning 50 cents for his membership dues. The "earning" part is a Scout requirement to encourage thrift.

Scout age is 12 to 15 and the Senior Scouts begin at 15. One of the most important branches of the Scout program is the Rovers, an organization of ex-Scouts who function as Scouts because they desire to continue the program.

Right now the Scouts are planning to take over a new 75-acre camp south of Ontario, the recent gift of a friend. They will work towards its development and anticipate the installation of a swimming pool before the camp season starts. The pool would also be a gift.

The Community Fund provides the Scout organization with its only source of income outside of occasional gifts. Last year operations cost $8,220.

Scouts in the past year gave 11,252 free hours of service on community projects and patriotic events, including the decoration of soldier graves on Memorial day.

There is just one more agency of the Community Fund that has not been touched upon in this series of explanatory articles. That is the Community Memorial, an agency that has no paid workers and no administration costs. It is maintained to purchase flags and flowers for soldiers' graves and to shoulder Community Memorial day expenses. This year $75 has been appropriated to that cause.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, April 27.

Sunday's horoscope accents the social, domestic, affectional and cultural interests of life, although these may not be blessed with perfect harmony and satisfaction. There are signs of temperament as well as temper, with stubbornness and resentment to mar perfect happiness. Maintain emotional impulses and postpone acceptance of fresh obligations or responsibilities.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year to tax their poise and good judgment, as they may function under strain, emotional excitement and general intensities of feeling and conduct. With these subdued, poise substituted and major responsibilities deftly handled there is promise of much domestic, social and sentimental happiness and success, with unusual vocation flourishing.

A child born on this day should have some originality and talent of an artistic, poetic or musical character, although it may be intense, emotional and bold.

For Monday, April 28.

Monday's astrological forecast should be for a day of thrilling and intriguing adventures, with a rapid and surprising pace spurring to action and accomplishments in all directions. There is a surprising angle to events, having a radical influence on the future, with change of plans, associates and environs. The intimate life seems involved with romance, adventure and emotional or artistic urges clamoring for expression. In this be wary as to peculiar complications.

Those whose birthday it is should be assured a year of outstanding experiences of a dramatic, romantic, emotional or artistic expression, involving the personal life with a marked or curious quality. It may be in high adventure and romance or in achievement of a thrilling character in some artistic, mystical or unique gesture. In such attainment there are peculiar hazards or complications.

A child born on this day should be talented in several probably unique or extraordinary ways, with a dramatic and spectacular life. Romance and art are dominant but not without curious undercurrents.

The next meeting on May 9 will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Gibson, Brinkerhoff avenue, with Mrs. E. J. Gilbert as the associate hostess.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I gave a little cry of anger—almost of anguish—as the young gangster opposite me thrust his stiletto inside my empty leather bag. It was one which Dicky had given me for my birthday and I valued it highly. The thought of its being slashed and ruined was horrifying. With a quick, involuntary movement, I seized his arm.

"Don't do that!" I adjured him. "It isn't necessary. That bag is of soft leather. You can urn it inside out, almost. You can tell there's no inner hiding place without ruining it."

His lips curled back over his teeth in another grin, and I realized that no cat ever played with a frightened mouse, and enjoyed the process more than he was relishing what he was doing.

"I always like to please the dames," he said. "Here!" He thrust the bag at me. "Suppose you turn it inside out for me. I don't quite fancy having both hands occupied without you being tied up. You are altogether too quick on the trigger, even though you haven't any trigger handy."

Searching the Bags.

I was almost ready to regret that I had not shot him when I had the opportunity, and my fingers trembled with rage as I turned out the lining of my bag for the inspection of the gangster. He scrutinized it closely, ran his hand over it, then gave an acquiescing nod.

"Okay!" he said. "I guess you're right about that. Now put these things back into it, and set it aside. Then unstrap that other bag and take everything out of it."

I did his bidding, and he scrutinized every article, and ran his hand about the lining of the bag, and with another satisfied nod, ordered me to repack that bag also, and set it in its former place.

"If anybody should come through here, we want to be cozy looking," he said. "Leave out that writing case," he added, indicating a blue leather portfolio which always accompanies me everywhere. "You're going to need it."

I obeyed him calmly—I had schooled my fingers—and my breathing—to quietude again. But my pulses quickened at a conjecture concerning the reason for the request which had just flashed upon me.

When the last article was in the bag, I closed it, fastened the straps and set it on the floor. The portfolio lay upon the seat beside me, but I did not touch it. Instead, I folded my hands in my lap and looked calmly out of the window, with a dipping of my flag to Mahatma Ghandi.

"Write That Letter!"

"Quit stalling!" The command was brusque in a voice with a touch of venom in it, and was followed immediately by another equally militant.

"Pick up that portfolio," he said, "take the pencil I see attached to it, and write down that letter you have memorized. And see that you get it right, down to the last crossed 't,' for I've got means of checking you, and it will be just too bad for you if you make a mistake."

I made him no answer, obeying him in silence. But, as I began to write at his bidding, I found my pulses pounding at this proof that this gangster associated so strangely with Carolyn was in contact with the one who had Marion in his power, and, in all probability, had stood at her side when she penned the strange epistle.

And then without warning the lights of the car went out.

CHAPTER 3

"Really, Mr. Anderson—I never had so refreshing a drink on a hot day," Rosalind Grinner drawled, giving him a flirtatious, dreamy look. "Tell me—what is a man like you doing out here in the sticks?"

"Trying to get a start in the world," was his curt rejoiner.

"How brave!" gushed Rosalind, all lively interest. "You'll surely amount to something in the end. What's your line?"

"You mean the profession I intend to follow?"

Rosalind sidled closer to him in her cutest debutante manner.

Raye, talking to her chauffeur across the drive, was inwardly fuming. How could a man be put in his place when a girl like Rosalind was making such silly eyes at him? And Bill Anderson looked as if he were enjoying it!

"I finished college in June and this was the only job I could find. It's not so bad. Eventually, I hope to be in a line where there's a future."

"How marvelous!" praised Rosalind quickly. "I do admire your pluck, Mr. Anderson. But it must be horribly dull in this place. Don't you ever have a date—or anything?"

"Hardly ever. I'm a stranger around here. My home's back east in Syracuse."

"That far away? You must get very lonely. I'm giving a dance at our country place Monday night. Why don't you come out? There'll be several other college men there. As a matter of fact, we never have enough men to go around. You'd be doing us a favor, Mr. Anderson."

Bill Anderson's gaze wandered over to Raye Stone, just climbing into her car. He said thoughtfully, "Thank you. Miss—er . . ."

"How stupid of me! I'm Rosalind Grinner."

"I'll be there Monday night, Miss Grinner. Your party will be a highlight in the career of a gas station attendant."

* * *

They laughed together over this apparent witticism and the sound of it reached Raye's ears with irritating distinctness.

"Rosalind — making a perfect little goose of herself again," thought Raye disgustedly. "I should have known what would happen if I dragged her out here."

And presently Raye knew even more about what had happened As they drove away from the cheerily waving Bill Anderson, Rosalind announced on a note of triumph. "Girls — what do you think? That tall devastating creature is coming to my dance! Isn't he a find?"

"Definitely," agreed Lottie Neff. "But your mother will be wild, Ros. You don't know a thing about him."

"Indeed, I do! He's Raye's friend. Isn't he, Raye?"

Raye adjusted a bobby pin in a curl and finally said, "No—merely an—an acquaintance. He's strictly your responsibility, Ros."

"Of all things!" said Rosalind, her brown eyes speculative.

But her quick smile showed how it suited her to be responsible for Bill Anderson.

Franklin Grinner, Rosalind's father, was a famous corporation attorney and, next to Raye Stone, the aggressive Rosalind was the most popular and socially important girl in Willville's debutante set.

"It couldn't be worse," decided Raye, with an inward moan.

But at any rate, Hal would be at the dance and she wouldn't be forced to give a second thought to Bill Anderson, much less notice him.

The Franklin Grinner country place, although lavishly appointed had an inviting rusticity about it that appealed to everyone forthwith. Tonight a barn dance was being staged, with Rosalind Grinner as hostess and her parents, the genial Franklin and Sarah Grinner, mingling with the lively young crowd and adding charming welcome to the festive occasion.

The main house, white clapboard with green blinds, now under the big full moon that vied with hundreds of colored electric lights on polo field and barnyard terrace, looked as if it had actually grown out of the rise of ground on which it stood. Guests were constantly arriving at the foot of the hill and, to their surprise and delight, asked to leave their cars there and be hauled up the lovely winding wooded road in hay wagons.

Raye and Rex Maine were riding with several other couples in a hay wagon drawn by a pair of spanking bays. Upon reaching the hill's summit, this merry load of arrivals scrambled to the ground, eager to meet whatever other thrilling innovation this party had to offer.

Rex immediately linked an arm possessively through Raye's and they followed the crowd through a large airy barn, where the lucky Grinner polo ponies enjoyed life.

Raye usually loved anything in the way of horseflesh and she had ridden the best mounts for years. Her lovely slim figure, beautifully balanced on a sleek high-bred animal, was a familiar sight on Willville's park bridle paths.

But now she scarcely glanced at the pretty little restless ponies she was passing. She set her rose-colored slippers down, one after the other, with a determination she rarely ever exerted.

She hadn't felt like coming to this party tonight; she hadn't wanted to be brought by Rex. But at least it took her away from Aunt Susan, who was in one of her prunes and prism moods again. Evidently, people had been talking. Raye could plainly see that she and auntie would eventually have to thrash out the subject of her friendship with Hal and she rather dreaded it. By being here tonight, she had certainly escaped one of auntie's old-fashioned curtain lectures.

Raye and Rex came to the terrace where a cocktail bar was set up, surrounded by furniture cleverly made of bales of straw with cornstalk backs. Raye's eyes quickly searched the crowd as she sat down with Rex on a straw divan. If only this once Ruthie had refused to come with Hal—not tag along with a totally indifferent husband. Why couldn't Ruthie wake up to the fact that she was being merely tolerated? It made it so difficult for Hal—and worse than difficult for her.

Tall, gangling Jim Root sauntered over from the bar, saying, "You can't escape me tonight, Raye. I put in a bid now for not less than six rhumbas."

His dark young eyes were fastened expectantly on Raye's troubled face.

"Yes, of course," agreed Raye, forcing a bright smile. "But what a small order. At least you might have made it an even dozen."

Then she caught sight of Hal—alone. Her nerves tingled.

"Do you really mean it?" quickly asked Jim.

"Emphatically, darling. You have to live up to the Harvard tradition, you know—keep fit for the winter season—you can't fail the freshmen."

"Why harp on my tender years? Besides — you're not so ancient yourself."

But Raye was not listening. Hal Bedford was coming toward her, looking fascinating in his white summer evening clothes.

"Greetings," sang out Hal, standing before Raye. "That orchestra is certainly tops. Come on, young woman—let's see if you remember that new step I taught you"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

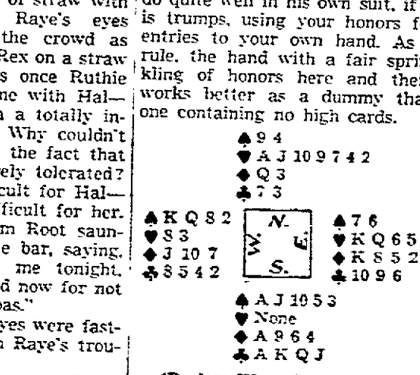
"The Authority on Authorities"

RESCUING IS DANGEROUS

IF YOUR hand is totally void of cards in the suit your partner has bid and bid, that does not mean you should rescue by taking him out into one of your own suits. Maybe he hasn't a thing in the world in any of your suits, and you will have to keep playing away from your own hand, thereby wrecking your own chances to get anywhere. Also maybe he can do quite well in his own suit, if it is trumps, using your honors for entries to your own hand. As a rule, the hand with a fair sprinkling of honors here and there works better as a dummy than one containing no high cards.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♦
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	4 ♠
Dbl	5 ♥	Dbl

South should never have made his 4-Spade bid. He had already shown both his exact distribution and his strength. If he had a 4-4-4-1, expert bidding would have shown the suits in regular order—such as spades, then diamonds, then clubs, or else clubs, then diamonds, then spades. But he showed spades first, then not diamonds, but clubs, and lastly diamonds. To an expert partner this would betoken five cards in the first suit and four each in the others, with consequently a void in hearts.

Knowing he had told this to North, he should have passed the 4-Hearts, which was bid with full knowledge of South's blank. North had a tough job with the 5 Hearts, but made it, whereas the 4-Spades should have been set. East led the spade 7, which North took with dummy's A. He played three clubs, discarding his other spade, ruffed a spade and then led the heart J to East's Q. The latter, with only red cards, made his only safe return, a heart. North won with the 10, cashed the heart A and then put East in again with the heart 9 to the K. This time East had nothing left but diamonds, so he had to lead one. North let it ride to his Q, and was safely home by playing to the dummy's diamond A and then taking in his remaining trumps. It was neat work—a double lead-throwing end-play.

Your Week-End Lesson.

What kind of bidding gives you the greatest warning against ultimately doubling the opponents' contract, when you hold a lot of honors in all suits except trumps? Can you set up a hand which illustrates that type of bidding?

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Mayor Bill Locke last Tuesday night talked himself into the role of host at a wiener roast to at least 100 men so quickly it must have made even hizzoner's head swim.

And the 100 took him up so quickly that if the Mayor's head isn't swimming now, it must be because it's already in the hot-dog house.

Swimming pools in dog houses is still something new for this department. I don't think they've got 'em.

* * *

It seems that when a small group of Richland county men met Tuesday night at Yuncker's store to form the Charles Mill Lake Sportsman's club for the development of the area as a sportsman's paradise, the mayor became a bit expansive, even for his portly self.

"As soon as you get 100 members I'll toss a wiener roast for the club at my Charles Mill cottage," he promised.

Yesterday at 2 p. m., or thereabouts, Leo Yuncker called the Mayor and said: "You're stuck for a wiener roast."

Says Yuncker, "I knew by the way he laughed that he was leaning back in his chair and enjoying it."

"I know what you mean," said Locke.

"We've got 102 members right now," Yuncker told me last night, "and we're all ready to go on co-operation with the Muskingum Conservancy in the development of the area for fishing, boating, duck hunting, skating and reforestation.

"Ashland county already has a Charles Mill club of 232 members, and the two clubs jointly should get just about what they want from the conservancy district.

"The Ashland members have been after concessions from the conservancy officials, but have been told that they'd have to wait until the wants of Richland sportsmen were known.

"Now the two groups can get together, formulate a program, present it to the conservancy officials, and get action.

"Bryce Browning of the conservancy office is to be here a week from Wednesday to talk to the Richland Fish & Game association, and we're going to talk over the whole problem with him," Yuncker concluded.

All the Charles Mill fish and game
Will hang their fins and tails in shame,
When hizzoner plays the host
At a sportsman's wiener roast.

DERBY CANDIDATES GO AT JAMAICA

NEW YORK — (AP) — The east's leading Kentucky derby candidates —eight of them—and one colt that ranks with the best of the three-year-old crop although not nominated for any of the major "classics" are scheduled to go to the post at Jamaica today in the $20,000 added Wood Memorial.

The field includes Ogden Phipps' King Cole, winner of the Paumonok handicap; Coldstream's stable's Curious Coin, one of the leading campaigners of the winter season: the Bern stable's well-liked Master Henry; Arnold Hanger's Harvard Square, which is coupled with A. J. Sackett's Richmond as an entry—and Mettlesome.

GALAHADION GETS ROLE OF FAVORITE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (AP) — Milky Way Farms' Gallahadion which raced to glory last year by defeating Col. E. R. Bradley's odds-on-favorite, Bimelech, in the Kentucky Derby, was the bettors' choice today to win the 67th running of the Clark handicap, feature race on opening day at Churchill Downs.

Coupled with the 1940 Derby winner was Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Up The Creek, winner of the Clark last year. Gallahadion will carry top weight of 122 pounds while his stablemate has been assigned 112 for the mile and one-sixteenth $2,500 added handicap

Harder Tackles Tigers

Opposes Newsom Today In Series Opener.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Mel Harder is out to give another demonstration today that he can lick the Detroit Tigers with some of the old skill of his earlier years.

His mound opponent this time is Buck Newsom, who has won no games this season and has bowed to the Browns and the White Sox.

Harder beat the Tigers and Schoolboy Rowe at Detroit last Sunday, though he was hampered by a cold wind and the errors of his Indian teammates. He walked seven and had to have Joe Heving's help in the ninth, but he held the Tigers to six hits and won, 4 to 2. The Indians got seven hits.

This time he may have heavier Tribe hitting to help him, if the Indians retain their batting power of yesterday. Cleveland made ten hits, highest total for the season, to snatch a game away from the White Sox after two were out in the ninth inning, 5 to 3.

The Tribe was trailing by one point in the finale when the uprising began with Hal Trosky's third hit, a single. Jeff Heath fanned and Ray Mack flied out. The heat came on as Soup Campbell went to bat for Russ Peters and Charlie Workman went in to run for Trosky.

Campbell's single, duplicated by Rollie Hemsley, brought Workman in with the tying run.

While Bob Feller warmed up in the bull pen, Beau Bell batted for Joe Heving, and that little maneuver in the lineup paid dividends. Bell smacked out a double which brought in Campbell and Hemsley.

* * *

Heving got credit for the victory. He was sent in to relieve Jim Bagby after the Sox broke a 2-all tie in the sixth.

Mansfielders Roll at Dayton

DAYTON—(U.P.)—Entrants in the 38th annual Ohio State bowling tournament enter the home stretch drive here tonight as the tourney goes into its fourth and semi-final week.

Topping the 127 five-man teams scheduled for action tonight and tomorrow are the Cleveland and Cincinnati entries of 15 and 20 teams respectively.

Heading the Cleveland delegation are the defending champion Rosenblums who won the tournament last year at Toledo with a score of 3197.

The Akron O'Neills currently are pacing the pack with a score of 59 pins below the 1940 championship total of the Rosenblums.

Nine Toledo teams will bowl while eight will be entered from Dayton. Akron and Middletown have entered three teams apiece. Two entries will bowl from Columbus. Mansfield, Massillon and Bucyrus will be represented by one each.

* * *

More than 700 bowlers will compete tomorrow night to set the stage for the conclusion of the tournament a week later.

CHAMPION'S RALLY SAVES HIS CROWN

BALTIMORE, Md.—(U.P.)—The world's bantamweight crown still sits upon the brow of Lou Salica of Brooklyn today.

* * *

Salica got a thorough going over last night from a courageous little home town item named Lou Transparenti.

* * *

But when the title seemed in dire jeopardy, the champion put on a closing burst that gave him a 15-round unanimous decision. He was forced to go all-out to retain the title which he won in 1935, lost the following year and regained in 1940. But Transparenti probably earned himself a return crack at the championship.

Wild Clamor of Fans And Relatives Wins.

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Scattered paragraphs containing scattered thoughts about sports:

In response to the clamor of his reading public (two cousins and a great aunt), your correspondent hereby announces his selection for the Kentucky derby. By the time they hit the stretch it will be a two-horse race between Our Boots and Porter's Cap. Our Boots will get on top in the last few strides and win.

Hot tip out of the deep South: Pete Norton, sports editor of the Tampa Tribune, writes that he is high on the chances of Tommy Gomez, Tampa boxer, to win the heavyweight championship in the next few years. Gomez has had 29 fights, scored 24 knockouts, won four decisions and lost one. He's 20 years old and weighs around 180, which was Dempsey's approximate fighting weight when he knocked out Willard.

A dark horse will have a great chance to win the United States amateur golf championship at Omaha this year if the army keeps getting top-flight players. Charley Yates, former British amateur champion, has been placed in class 1-A and expects to be called next month. Frank Strafaci is in uniform, and it looks as though the present title-holder, Dick Chapman, is going to be either a physical education instructor or a soldier.

After a winter of mulling over the figures, the American football statistical bureau announces: Tom Harmon of Michigan led the college scores last fall with 117 points. Lafayette, with an average gain of 368.2 yards per game was the best offensive team. Navy, yielding an average of 96 yards per game to opponents, was the top defensive team. Cornell was the leading passing team with an average gain of 186.3 yards per game.

Pepper Martin's popularity is pulling the customers through the turnstiles at Sacramento where the wild horse of the Osage is manager. The first six days his team drew 24,090 compared to a total of 92,000 for all of last season.

Redleg Fans Want Victory

Champs Have Trouble Winning at Home.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Queen City wants to see its world champions win a ball game. Today's ladies' day game with the Pittsburgh Pirates and tomorrow's Pirate clash offer the opportunity for the Reds to satisfy the hometown following.

After that, the Reds head east for 11 games.

The Reds left town after three trimmings by the St. Louis Cardinals—two of them in final innings. A chance to come back on the crest of a six-game winning streak was spoiled by those same Cards yesterday 8-4.

Probable moundsmen today are Johnny Vander Meer or Jim Turner for the Reds and Russ Bauers for the Pirates. Bauers was routed by the Reds in the eighth at Forbes Field when the world champions ended a four-game defeat string.

Yesterday's game was the big letdown for the Reds. After 23 innings of errorless ball, they muffed three. In seven of the nine innings the first Red up got on base with a hit or walk, and in four of those innings the Reds were goose-egged. The Cards turned in five double plays.

Junior Thompson was credited with the loss for an inning and a third of pitching. He walked four men, allowed three hits and uncorked a wild pitch, yielding two runs in each frame.

Lon Warneke, who beat the Reds in the opener, scattered seven hits over seven innings, and Ira Hutchinson was just as stingy in giving two safeties for the two scoreless final rounds.

Elmer Riddle replaced Thompson in the second and felt the sting of the Cardinals' warclubs in the fifth and sixth. A walk and three singles netted a pair of runs in the fifth; and in the sixth two singles, an error and Enos Slaughter's double brought in two more.

Johnny Hutchings held the Cardinals scoreless in the last two frames.

BUCKEYES TRIMMED BY WISCONSIN

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Ohio State university baseball nine was out for revenge today after dropping a 10 to 7 decision to Wisconsin on the varsity diamond yesterday. The two teams meet in the second of a two-game series this afternoon.

Wisconsin's infield tried its best to give the Buckeyes a victory yesterday, but Ohio pitchers, fielders and hitters blew up in a puff of smoke. The Badgers' inner defense made nine errors. However, Wisconsin batters connected for 18 hits off three Ohio State hurlers.

LIEDERKRANZ AND EAGLES ROLL ALIKE

Mansfield bowlers were more than 400 pins off the pace in the team event of the A. B. C. tournament at St. Paul last night, but they claimed this honor: they were consistent.

Only five pins separated the Liederkranz and Eagle quintets as the Eagles rolled 2,649 and Liederkranz 2,644.

Vogel Brothers of Forest Park, Ill., led the tourney with 3,065.

Standings In ABC Shaken Up

Chicago Team Crashes Into Third Place.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — (INS) — A thorough shaking-up was given the standings in the American Bowling congress tournament today as a result of last night's kegling.

The Budweiser Beer quintet of Kansas City was hoisted to a tie for sixth place in the five-men event, with a score of 3,027. A Shakopee, Minn., team previously made the same score.

The Dean Rubber company team also of Kansas City, tied Koenig Brau Beers of Chicago for eighth place. Bernie Debbs, of the Dean team, rolled 671, the highest score on either Kansas City outift, while Virgil Gibbs of Budweiser rolled 650.

The Kansas City teams actually rated a notch higher at the time they finished, but in a late performance the Joseph L. Gill Insurance company squad of Chicago crashed into third place with a score of 3,034. Adolph "Dutch" Carlson led the Gill team with a score of 678.

East Pittsburgh Wins Alley Joust

East Pittsburgh keglers today hold the Westinghouse bowling championship with a rousing 3,022 total rolled in a company telegraphic tournament Thursday night by the company's 13 plants.

* * *

The $50 first prize went to East Pittsburgh, and $40 second prize was won by Lima with 3,003. Newark, N. J., took third money of $30 with 2,958.

* * *

Finishing fourth, and just out of the money, was Mansfield with 2,864.

Walt Fensch led the Mansfield plant with 245-177-246—668 and Jack Hanrahan had 202-210-202—614.

N. Y. U. Leads Penn Relays

Violet Thin-Clads Grab Two Major Titles.

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— New York university, with two major titles under its belt, sought a grand slam in the 47th annual Penn relay carnival today by sending its violet-clad runners out on Franklin field's fast track after four more major championships.

* * *

Chief competition for the New Yorkers at the end of this two-day meet came from Indiana's big 10 squad, already bested twice by the easterns in a pair of stirring stretch duels.

It was Leslie MacMitchell, N. Y. U.'s IC4A mile champion, against Campbell Kane, the Hoosiers' western conference mile king, with the relay carnival championship in the balance. MacMitchell, slight, dark-haired front-runner, matches strides again today with the tall, lanky Kane in the two-mile and four-mile events.

The Violets meet their chief opposition from North Texas Teachers in the 880-yard relay, with Indiana out of the event. N. Y. U. and Indiana meet in the one-mile event but neither MacMitchell nor Kane participate on these teams. The two-mile and the four-mile, favorite events for the distance-running mid-westerns, again bring the two men together.

What practically amounts to a feud started yesterday when MacMitchell twice nosed out Kane to give N. Y. U., its championships in the distance and sprint medleys. In the final mile of distance medley, Kane challenged in the stretch but MacMitchell accepted and ran to a three-foot victory.

* * *

The sprint medley was run in two heats and Indiana, with Kane running anchor, won the first heat in 3:28.7. New York university, in the second heat, beat that time by three-tenths of a second with MacMitchell again carrying the mail on the final half-mile leg.

Powell Cops Second Win

Colonels Hope Southpaw Has Hit Flag Stride.

(By the Associated Press)

The Louisville Colonels of the American Association are looking to Lefty Larry Powell to win a lot of games for them this season.

He won his second straight game yesterday — against the hard hitting Minneapolis Millers —in a seven inning game 7-3. Minneapolis won the opening game of the double header, 6 to 3.

Indianapolis got another round of good pitching, this tmie from Bill Cox, and defeated St. Paul, 3 to 2, to stay at the heels of the pace-setting Colonels.

At Columbus, Pitcher Harry Brecheen hurled and batted his mates to a 4 to 4, 11-inning victory over Milwaukee. Brecheen duobled home. Garden Gillenwater for the winning run.

George Barley pitched Kansas City to a 5 to 0 victory over the Toledo Mudhens.

Infielders Grab Lead In Batting

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Two infielders, Cecil Travis of Washington and Stanley Hack of the Chicago Cubs, have grabbed the major league batting leads after the first 10 days of play, according to the averages released today and including Thursday's games.

* * *

Travis, Senators' shortstop who is slated to be inducted into the army in mid-May, is showing the way to American league hitters with a .586 average in eight games. His nearest rival is Jeff Heath, Cleveland outfielder, who is hitting .450 in six games.

* * *

Hack, Cubs' third baseman, is setting the pace in the National league with a .478 mark for seven games followed by Nick Etten, Phillies' rookie first baseman, with .395.

Brown Announces Program For Spring Grid Clinic

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Coach Paul Brown of Ohio State announced today the program for the school's 10th annual football clinic May 9-10 which is expected to attract a record number of Ohio scholastic grid mentors.

* * *

The new Buckeye coach has a full two days planned for the high school coaches who will be given a first-hand opportunity to observe the methods Brown used to make Massillon the state's gridiron king.

After a welcoming address by Athletic Director L. W. St. John Friday morning, the visiting coaches will hear each member of Brown's staff lecture on the particular assignment he handles in grooming the Buckeyes for the opening game next fall.

The first-day lectures will end in time for the coaches to watch a complete Ohio State practice session beginning with the usual squad meeting in the men's gymnasium so that all the coaches may attend.

A dinner followed by moving pictures of the 1940 Ohio State-Cornell game will wind up the opening day program.

The Saturday program opens with the entire staff demonstrating the "building of the Ohio State football offensive system." Fritz Heisler of Massillon and Trevor Rees of Cleveland Shaw, the new freshman coaches who have not joined the staff permanently as yet, will be on hand to participate in the demonstration.

Election of the 1941-42 officers for the State High School Coaches association will be held at a noon luncheon. State high school athletic commissioner H. R. Townsend and E. C. Krieger, noted official, will speak at the luncheon. Krieger will discuss high school rule changes.

The two-day session will be climaxed by the annual Ohio State intra-squad game at 2:30 Saturday afternoon in the stadium.

* * *

Invitations to the clinic have been sent to 550 high school coaches and the response is expected to break the clinic attendance mark of 350 established last year.

Yankees Get Little Help From Dimaggio In Climb to Top

Joe Gets One Hit In 12 Trips to Platter But Mates Blast Apple.

By SID FEDER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

IT'S JUST like trying to make one and one add up to three, but the fact remains that the New York Yankees are bouncing along up there in the American league driver's seat and Joe DiMaggio hasn't had much more to do with the streak that put them there than your Aunt Kate.

The Bronx Bombers pulled themselves into their old stamping grounds just as Joe tapered off his fence-busting. Yesterday's 6 to 0 whitewashing of the Washington Senators, fashioned with nifty three-hit pitching by tiny Ernie Bonham, left the Yanks with a three-game winning string and one full game in the lead.

Yet, in those three games, dynamic DiMag, the pitchers' poison, collected the grand total of one hit in 12 batting chances, drove in exactly two runs, fell out of the No. 1 spot among the league apple-knockers.

* * *

The walloping Washington was handed yesterday left the Yanks looking back at two deadlocked rivals in second place—the Boston Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians. Young Heber (Dick) Newsome made his first start for the Sox and chalked up a five-hitter to whip the Athletics 3-1, with the help of Jimmy Foxx's first homer this season. The Indians went all out with a three-run rally in the ninth to knock off the Chicago White Sox 5-3.

Rudy York's two-run single in the ninth inning gave the defending champion Detroit Tigers a 12-11 decision over the St. Louis Browns in a circus performance that saw eight errors committed.

For doing it the hard way, however, the day's bouquet went to Sweet William Terry's National league leading New York Giants who had to score five runs in the ninth to flail the Phillies 7-4. Chief damage in the rally was done by Morrie Arnovich, a "fugitive" from the Phils, who pinch-tripled with the bases loaded.

Another Phillies' graduate, Kirby Higbe, finally won his first start as a Dodger by pitching a four-hitter to give Brooklyn a 5-0 win over the Boston Bees. In a game marked by Dolph Camilli's fifth homer—his fourth in five days.

* * *

Like the Giants, the Chicago Cubs pulled one out of the hat with a four-run outburst in the ninth inning to nip the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7, the second straight day the Bucs blew a one-run affair. Simply by getting their runs in batches of twos, the St. Louis Cardinals cuffed the Cincinnati Reds around 8-4.

WAR, TAX, LABOR DOUBTS SUBDUE MARKET TREND

Opening Sluggish as Leaders Remain Unchanged or Incline Downward.

NEW YORK—War, labor and tax doubts continued to keep stock market buyers subdued in today's early dealings.

At a sluggish opening, leaders unchanged to down a shade included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and General Motors.

A constructive market indicator was seen in the Associated Press compilation disclosing the first 175 companies to report for the initial 1941 quarter had an average earnings increase over the like period a year ago of 16 per cent.

Tire company shares were studied as the Rubber Manufacturers association announced shipments of automotive casings were up substantially last month while March production was the highest in four years.

NAZIS REACH OUTSKIRTS OF GREEK CAPITAL

Claim Trapping of British Rearguard In Surprise Circling Attack.

ary force from Greece took a "heavy toll of tonnage," it was claimed.

These sources said the land forces were progressing "according to plan" and that increasing numbers of Australian soldiers and stores of war equipment were being captured by the advancing German forces.

The German air raids on British transport vessels are now extending far at sea off the Hellenic coasts, German authorities declared.

An official announcement said a 3,000-ton transport vessel had been sunk "between Greece and Crete" and that five other transports totalling 23,000 tons had been damaged.

Berlin quarters said that the greater part of the B. E. F. in Greece had put to sea, taking considerable equipment with them, including tanks.

On the basis of German air force announcements since the "B. E. F. evacuation battle" began, German sources estimated that a grand total of 228,000 tons of shipping—exclusive of warships—have been sunk in Greek waters by German planes. In addition, it was stated, 69 more British vessels have been damaged "beyond repair for duration of the Mediterranean war."

Berlin quarters said it is now certain that the tonnage sinkings will far exceed the total of 250,000 tons sunk during the British evacuation from Dunkirk.

They added that at least half the British expeditionary force in Greece will not return home and that British losses in material will prove even heavier.

WORKERS RALLY FOR FUND DRIVE

200 at 'Kick Off' Dinner, Get Instructions For Campaign Opening Monday.

Baird, the presentation had Charles Newcomb as an unseen narrator.

A large luminous clock face with moving hands that pointed to each agency was the focal point for the action presented in a series of black-out skits.

Boy Scout precepts were introduced by Scout Executive Floyd Dent and Scouts John Cook, Paul Rondell, Bob Speary and Bob Campbell.

Completeness of Girl Scout training was demonstrated by Helen Donaldson, Betty Brook, Ann Parsons, Marian Gilbert and Miss Kathleen Sturges.

Importance of Mansfield General hospital was depicted in an emergency room skit by Miss Ann Menrath. Ken Woodman and Salvation Army Adjutant Paul Hoffman.

Y. M. C. A. emphasized its physical program by a group of athletes composed of James Young, John Adams, Robert Marth, Richard Wendland, David Richards, Herbert Smith, Robert Oakes and Richard Gross.

The Y. W. C. A. skit showed how young women, stranded in the city, are aided by the organization. Miriam Neese and Mary Lou Sowash appeared in this bit.

Need of the Dental Clinic which provides dental service for children whose parents are without means was depicted by Ken Woodman and Ned Fort.

The variety of activities covered by Friendly House which has a program for all ages and nationalities was shown by Frank Vetrano, Joe Vetrano, Robert Wheeler, Rudolph Luckie, Dorothy Bacquet, Mrs. William Militello and daughter, Rosemary, Agnes Yonkovski, Ann Zivkoff, Robert Tipul, Louise Waters, Jesse Anderson, Connie Letezia, Mike Wentz and Irma Augustine.

How Visiting Nurses not only administer physical care to the sick but also bring the outside world to the bedside of their patients was shown in a sketch between Mildred Palmer, supervisor of visiting nurses, and Mrs. V. H. Lodde, as patient.

Salvation Army's care of deserted children was portrayed by Mrs. Paul Hoffman and Harvey Bailey.

Cause of the Milk Fund that supplies undernourished school children with a half-pint of milk twice a day was presented by Tommy Newcomb and Tommy and Betty Weir.

Activities of the Community Memorial agency which decorates graves on Memorial day were portrayed by Ferd Loykovich.

As a fitting climax to the production the cast appeared against a patriotic background centered by an American flag.

Vice Chairman Robert Remy presided during the dinner featured by several talks and the singing of "Happy Birthday," the latter as a courtesy to George H. Smith, financial division chairman, who also received a birthday cake in honor of his anniversary.

Remy complimented Mrs. Williams, new executive secretary of the organization, for her work in editing the Community Fund tabloid that went into every Mansfield home today through Boy Scout delivery.

Injecting a bit of humor into the evening, prior to the dramatization, Chairman Roller, stuck on a Kentucky Colonel's mustache and called the 12 majors to the platform. He then dubbed them "colonels," and charged them to "wear the title with dignity."
